EYEBALL LENSE FOR ACTORS

Dentistic Boon to Performers Who Are Afflicted with Near-Sightedness.

The enterprising optician has come to the rescue of stage folk who are afflicted with near-sightedness. Glasses fitted with tiny lenses are now made for use of the actor so afflicted, and who, in deference to the character he is portraying, may not wear the regulation eyeglass or spectacles.

These special glasses fit close to the eyeball and are hardly distinguishable from the front of the house, save when the footlights are at their highest pitch of illumination. The nose piece, or bridge, connecting the lenses is covered with a flesh-colored material, which adds the illusion, states the New York Press.

It is said that Richard Mansfield is responsible for the innovation of the oculastic boon. At any rate, he is credited with being the first actor of note to wear them. His example has been followed by others, and at present there are few theatrical offerings in which there are not several pairs of the new glasses worn. The careless observer of Harry Davenport in "It Happened in Nordan" will catch an occasional gleam of glassy reflection as the comedian circulates about the stage in his successful efforts to entertain.

Chorus and "show" girls are debarred from the privilege of wearing glasses. It is no uncommon thing for the visitor behind the scenes to see several members of the musical play wearing eyeglasses, but when the cue is given for appearance on the stage the glasses are dropped down in bodices or placed in a convenient place to be picked up at the exit. In the blaze of light to which minor members of theatrical companies are subjected eyeglasses would be an incongruity. And oftentimes the afflicted ones are put to great inconvenience. Deprived of their artificial source of vision, they are almost helpless and depend, to a large extent, upon their coworkers for guidance.

QUEEN'S AUTO ADVENTURE.

Mishap to Car Compels Mother of Italy's King to Put Up with Humble Lodgings.

Queen Margherita, the queen mother of Italy, has done more to make herself known to the rural inhabitants of her son's kingdom in the three years that she has been motoring than in the twenty-two of her own reign, says the Pall Mall Gazette. She gets an immense amount of amusement out of impromptu visits to small towns, while the villagers go wild with enthusiasm. The other day she arrived in Cecina, a village of 3,000 people, near Pisa, and, a mishap occurring to the motor she stopped the night there at the inn.

Her majesty slept in an old-fashioned four-poster, and found the water frozen in her room in the morning. Carpets there were none, but good will in plenty, and when she appeared at breakfast she remarked to the delighted landlady who was serving, that the delicious odor of the lavender scented sheets was still with her. The parish priest had had a little more warning, so that when the queen appeared in the church for morning mass he was ready for her in freshly starched vestments, while the faces of his acolytes were shining after a free application of soap and water. He was visibly nervous, and almost dropped the collection plate when he saw that it contained gold.

TRICK OF AN ELEPHANT.

Circus Animal Gives Cagemates a
Thorough and Unwelcome Drenching.

A circus train was pulling out of Spokane, Wash., a few weeks ago, when suddenly the injector "broke" and persistently refused to take up water. After working with it a few minutes the engineer ordered an examination made of the tank; it was found nearly empty, although filled at the water crane but a short time before.

No explanation of this mystifying condition was apparent until water in numerous streams was seen running from the elephant car, next to the tender, and then the cause was found. Jumbo had amused himself by reaching his trunk through the open end of his car into the manhole of the tender and sucking up the water, with which he had deluged the other animals in the car.

They looked like drowned rats, and, needless to say, had enjoyed the involuntary bath no more than the trainmen had the delay.

Could See Something Comic.

A waitress in a restaurant in a northern town is known to the members of the establishment for her ready wit. An occasional customer went in the other day for dinner. After receiving his order the waitress handed him a newspaper to while away the time that would elapse before dinner was served. He looked up after a few minutes and said: "I say, miss, have you nothing comic to look at?"

"Well, sir," replied the waitress, without a smile, "there's a looking-glass straight in front of you, sir."—Comic Cuts.

"Father" of the World's Press.
Kin-pun, an official paper of China, is the oldest journal in the world, dating back to 911. It became a weekly in 1861, a daily in 1890, and is now a tri-daily. The regular issue is 8,000 copies. The morning edition is printed on yellow paper and is confined to trade interests; the noon issue is white and wholly official; while that at night is printed on black paper and its contents are miscellaneous.

Bluejacket.

J. Gore, Jr., was here Sunday visiting home folks.

Mrs. M. Holderman was here visiting friends last week.

Dr. Smith's mother is visiting him.
Her home is in Berryville, Ark.

Mr. Charles Hudson and Miss Lillie Bluejacket were married last Saturday evening, Mayor Bunch officiating. May their married life be one of happiness and prosperity.

Mr. and Mrs. Wardell were down Tuesday night to attend the Medal contest. They returned to Chetopa Saturday.

In the medal contest that was held Friday night Devan Hill received the medal. The boys all deserve a great deal of credit for the way in which they delivered their pieces. Miss Holderman's pupils gave a recital, in connection with the contest which was enjoyed by all. Her pupils are progressing nicely in both vocal and instrumental music.

Mrs. Addie Chouteau, of Kansas City, but who is now visiting in Vinita, was here Sunday, the guest of Mrs. J. Gore.

PERIL IN THE HAND-SHAKE.

Not long ago Dr. J. N. Hirsch, of Chicago, said: "The most delicate perfume upon the hands is not a sign of freedom from germs, and the most refined are not free from disease of lungs or throat, and the germs are rapidly spread by touching the hand that has handled the handkerchief of one afflicted with a cold, catarrh or consumption. The breath one inhales from the lungs of another may contain germs of disease." You will not only be able to resist the germs of consumption, but many thousands of cases have been known where persons who were suffering from incipient phthisis, or the early stages of consumption were absolutely cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It maintains a person's nutrition by enabling him to eat, retain, digest and assimilate food. It overcomes the gastric irritability and symptoms of indigestion, and thus the person is saved from those symptoms of fever, night-sweats, headache, etc., which are so common.

An alterative extract like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, will assist the stomach in assimilating or taking up from the food such elements as are required for the blood, will assist the liver in throwing off the poisons in the system. Do not permit some designing druggist to insult your intelligence by offering you a remedy which he claims is "just as good" because he made it up himself, or ten chances to one you will get a medicine made up largely of alcohol, which will only weaken the system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is heartily recommended by every person who has ever used it and it has stood the test of thirty-eight years of approval from people all over the United States. Please Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing ready. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 11 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
